

ABSTRACT

An expansion pipe for an engine which has a curved tubular body, a first connector for connecting an interior of the body to an exhaust part of the engine, and a second connector which is used for connecting an interior of the body to an exhaust gas treatment device and which has the same configuration as the first connector.

5